Sustainable luxury real estate

While modeling and acting in Australia, Bronwyn Jones, encouraged by her father, earned a bachelor's degree in business administration. She discovered her passion for business as she traveled with her ex-husband for venture deals. An active philanthropist from an early age, Bronwyn has advised prominent green-focused brands. With an approach rooted in sustainability, her consulting firm, Coral Sustainable Services, introduced the WELL Building Standard by Delos to Australia, inviting builders and developers to add wellness applications and technologies into their projects. Her dedication and optimistic spirit allowed her to build strong relationships with international clients. Inspired and encouraged by successful women in real estate, she decided to get her license and to apply her business skills and market knowledge to the luxury real estate industry.

From the Hollywood hills to Malibu to South Orange County, her expertise of the housing market in exclusive areas combined with her knowledge of sustainable technologies make her an exception in the real estate landscape. "Green technologies, from air filtration systems to circadian lighting, are highly beneficial to the quality of life of homeowners."

TREND ALERT: SUSTAINABLE LUXURY LIVING WITH BRONWYN LEIGH JONES

Bronwyn Leigh Jones is quickly becoming a force to be reckoned with in the entrepreneurial world, and if you don't know her yet, you're about to.

The actress, model, and singer-songwriter from Australia pursued a business degree in college. Diving straight into the entertainment industry after, she signed onto Warner Chappell Publishing, joined MTV, and started making appearances on television and in the music industry.

Rarely do you hear business trips described as "life-changing," but Bronwyn's trip to Los Angeles to interview Prince and Lenny Kravitz was. After falling in love with California (I mean, who wouldn't), she immigrated to America to break into the real estate industry. Now, with her keen eye for design, fierce ambition, and almost two decades of residing in Los Angeles and Orange County, Bronwyn has found lots of success in the real estate world, specializing in "new developments that are innovative and modern with wellness and sustainable applications."

Meet CORAL: Bringing Together Luxury and Sustainability

When Bronwyn Leigh Jones was told to “be the change she wished to see in the world,” she really took the statement to heart.

As a single mother, businesswoman, and entrepreneur, she strived to shape her career around causes she’s passionate about, and thus dedicated herself to equality, child welfare, compassion, and sustainability.

Which brings us to CORAL. CORAL started out as a Green consulting firm but has quickly transformed into a firm focused on luxury real estate, sustainable development, wellness lifestyle, luxury goods, and fashion.

In the words of Bronwyn, the organization provides “strategic consulting and business acceleration services to emerging technology innovators, Greentech wellness, and sustainable companies, with a focus on sustainable innovation.”

“Some may think that sustainability means a lack of exciting amenities, my goal is to show my clients that sustainability means exciting, healthy, luxurious construction and amenities. Modern Real estate comes in many forms, and in reality, it includes being up to date with technology and fashion”.

FROM HOLLYWOOD TO HOLMBY HILLS: BRONWYN JONES MAKES HER MARK ON THE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT, REAL ESTATE, AND FASHION

Bronwyn's impressive resume was not built overnight; in fact, her career began while attending high school in Australia's country music capital. She began to pursue her dreams of being a singer/songwriter and actress. Though, she also began her modeling career around this time. Years later, after finding success in the entertainment industry and traveling the world, Bronwyn discovered her passion for the entrepreneurial world. It was then that she broke into the venture capital industry and founded her sustainability brand Coral Solutions.

She describes Coral's first client experience with DelosTM, "Working with DelosTM was a powerful experience for me, in that it deepened my passion for inspiring builders and developers to add wellness applications and technologies into their development, to become more Green."

Coral may have started as a sustainability consulting firm, but Bronwyn quickly broadened their horizons to include luxury real estate, fashion and lifestyle, and sustainable development innovations. Bronwyn has forged her own path in her respective industries with her close client relationships and commitment to sustainability.

With inspiration from her close friends like Amanza Smith from Selling Sunset and the gratification that came with closing an escrow, Bronwyn began to shift her focus to California's real estate industry. What sets her apart in such a competitive industry is her approach to the home buying process. Grounded in sustainability with an emphasis on fostering each client relationship, Bronwyn brings a unique experience to her clients.
